SCOTT'S - MULSION

Of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites Of Lime and Soda.

There are emulsions and emulsions, and there is still much skimmed milk which masquerades as cream. Try as they will many manufacturers cannot so dispuise their cod licer oil as to make it palatable to sensitive stomachs. Scatt's Emulsion of PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL, combined with Hypophosphites is almost as palatable as milk. For this reason as well as for the fact of the stimulating qualities of the Hypophosphites, Physicians frequently prescribe it in cases of Cotton Plants.

A German botanist finds that three pecies of cotton are known, viz: 1. Gossypium barbadense L., which is a native of America, and has seeds which are easily separated from the fibre. This species is known as "sea island cotton." "Barbadoes cotton" or "New Orleans cotton." and the cotton of Peru is a variety. 2. G. arboreum L. which has an especially white fibre, seeds separated with difficulty, and purple red flowers. The species has long been grown in Egypt, Arabia and India. 3. G. herbaceum L., which has filament-coated seeds like the last, but yellow flowers. This cotton was introduced into the United States from India a little over a century ago, and is the one now so extensively cultivated in the former country. Its earliest cultivation dates from more than 2,600 years ago, since which time it has produced a number of varieties. one with a yellow fibre known as

No More Coloring Pipes.

Coloring meerschaums has gone out of fashion. Years ago it was quite a fad, but so much trouble was required to keep a meerschaum in good condition that most smokers discarded their pipes and took to cigars. A meer-schaum, to be properly colored, needs as much attention as a baby. It must not get too hot, for then the wax coating is driven out and the pipe does not take a proper color; it must not get too cold nor cool off too suddenly, or it will crack; you must not touch it with your fingers, nor smoke it too steadily, nor keep a cover on it while using it, for in either case it is spoiled. Men, as a rule, do not smoke for the pleasure of coloring a pipe, but for the comfort they get from the habit, and so the meerschaum has given way.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contamination and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and liga-ments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chilky deposits which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact, which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetters Stomach Bitters, has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it. since the medicine contains only substary ingre-dients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial favers, constipation, dyspepsis, kidney and blad-der aliments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.
